

Yin and Yang

Is the world just black and white?

Or are we just blinded by the darkness and light?

There is always a hero and villan

But have you ever stopped to think,

What if that villan is one in a million?

A hero in their own story

Who never got the glory.

A person who needed a friend

But got stabbed in the end.

How can you consider all the aspects

When you don't even know if you are seeing the world correct?

I can cry because I'm laughing too hard,

but I can also smile when I am breaking apart.

How can this feel so different when it looks the same?

Is this the true meaning of Yin and Yang?

Yin and yang are not complete opposites,

Although Yin is negative and Yang is positive.

They both have a piece of each other in them.

Everyone you think is bad

Might just be mad or sad.

Anyone you think is good

Might betray you if they could.

How can a person be just one side

When you can't be perfect no matter how hard you try?

So what I am trying to say

Is that even if the world is truly black and white,

There is always going to be some grey

Because that's what you get when you mix the Yin and Yang.