

I never thought I'd be that girl

I never thought I'd be that girl

Staring at the picture's on my walls and the details of my room. Sitting blankly feeling sad but also numb at the same time. way there's so way to describe that feeling, of just sitting there so done to the point that you're in the silence of all your dealing with and been through silently, loudly wringing in your ears.

I never thought id be that girl

To turn on my side and reply everything in my head.

I never thought id be that girl

To go through the same pictures and videos repeatedly

I never thought id be that girl

Who stayed I her room falling apart over a boy who's hopping girl to girl

I never thought id be that girl

To make up a million excuse's for someone who isn't good for me

I never thought id be that girl

To let a boy have such control over me, pick myself apart fighting tooth and nail to keep him in my life

I never thought id be that girl

To ignore red flags because of the love I had for them

I never thought id be that girl

Who blames herself for others mistakes and thinks everything's her fault

I never thought id be that girl

To fight for them, practically begging them to stay even though they hurt me, because nobody has ever made me feel this way before, this powerful strong feeling that overtakes everything else

I cant just let that go

I never thought id be that girl

Now I am

Now I'm that girl who I used to pity and judge

I never thought id be that girl but because of him now I am

now I'm that girl

to defend and protect his name when he wouldn't do the same

now I'm that girl

who cries over the past now I'm that girl that worries if she's enough and can't believe when someone says she is

now I'm that girl

to go quiet every time I hear his name

now I'm that girl

who can't walk where I walked with you without my legs giving out

now I'm that girl

who thinks everyone will leave her

now I'm that girl

who can't believe a promise because every single one you've made was a hollow empty promise

now I'm that girl

who can't depend on anyone else because of how easily you can be replaced and left alone to only help yourself

now I'm that girl

who cries herself to sleep because she can't stop thinking about everything nonstop with every word you said imprinted in my head

now I'm that girl

who makes stupid decisions for a boy who was hardly affected at all

now I'm that girl

who constantly second guesses herself

now I'm that girl

who waits for someone who she knows deep down isn't coming back

now I'm that girl

who can't go anywhere without worrying about seeing him, avoiding certain places that remind me of you

now I'm that girl

who can't go back to how I was before him

now I'm that girl
who stays even if it hurts just for them to be happy
now I'm that girl
because of him.

By Ellora Stewart

September 23