

I Don't Like Poems

I don't like writing poems, never have, never will!

Use your imagination and lots of poetic devices.

Speak up and use your voice, follow all the steps and give it your all!

That's what they say to do when writing a poem!

Step 1: Write it all down. Write what? "Reach down deep into your soul and let it all pour out", they say.

My soles are worn through from miles and miles of pacing trying to figure out exactly where this
"ALL" is so I can write it down!

"Make sure to include a simile", but my brain is as devoid as the desert.

I can't even come up with a good metaphor instead as it feels like a bomb is ticking in my head waiting to explode!

Try some alliteration instead, but it is seriously, stupendously, silly!

By this time I should be well onto step 5, but instead, I digress and have to go back to step one and repeat and repeat and repeat until I am done!

I don't like writing poems, never have, never will!

I don't like writing poems, never have, never will!