Discovery Spaces are fun, hands-on learning spaces created for you and your child to explore and enjoy STREAM (Science, Technology, Reading, Engineering, Art & Math) activities together. For more information about the activities and locations, visit kids.hpl.ca.

To complement our Discovery Space program, you’ll notice some changes to this edition of the What’s Happening Guide. You may notice that many programs fit into more than one area of STREAM. We’ve organized our wonderful free programs for kids, families and teens by age group, then alphabetically by program name.

Look for these icons:

Kids are natural explorers. At the Library, our goal is to nurture curiosity and wonder with a lifelong love of reading and learning.

Science programs use experiments to look at our natural environment and space.

Technology programs focus on digital literacy, robotics and coding by exploring simple machines.

Reading programs explore reading and writing through basic literacy skills.

Engineering programs look at understanding space, planning and design structures and movement.

Arts programs celebrate culture and creativity through music, storytelling and visual arts.

Math programs use shapes, patterns and counting to make numeracy fun.

If you have any suggestions about the type of programs you would like us to offer, or ideas about our children’s programming, please contact us: http://www.hpl.ca/forms/contact-us

Buster Keaton's Steamboat Bill, Jr (1928)

Every year, HPL celebrates the work of the legendary Buster Keaton, whose silent comedy classics still make people laugh more than 90 years after their creation. Steamboat Bill, Jr. has all of Keaton's trademarks: a jaded and often surreal sense of humour.
